

The Secrets of the Universe

Prosperity Step-by-Step

By Brad Jensen

The best advice in the world won't work unless we put it work and carry it through. Its one thing to SAY it works, but is another to DO it and have results to prove it. (Wallace D. Wattles says that too.) Are there any millionaires reading this?

Thankfully, I am a millionaire. I created a company that is worth at least seven million dollars, and I earn an income of over half a million a year. I started many years ago with a degree in Philosophy/Religion and a borrowed pencil. I have been diligently exploring prosperity ideas, learning and teaching them for over 35 years.

Here are the secrets of the Universe:

Our world is a dream world, and it works just like dreaming, but generally slower. As you acknowledge the dreaminess of it, and begin to work with it from that perspective, the apparent speed of action increases.

The way to direct the world is through your imagination and will. Exercising your will strengthens it. You can exercise it by doing something unpleasant until it becomes pleasant.

You receive through the same doorway you give through. The way to receive freely is to give freely. Quality is more important than quantity, since the Universe amplifies thought into circumstance. Begin giving and let God perfect your giving.

Forgive God. Loving your neighbor is loving God. Forgiving your neighbor is forgiving God. When you see a lack of God's love or grace in any condition – look again. Look deeper. Jesus, on the cross, said in effect, "How could you do this to me, God?" and then, "I trust You. I accept your purpose as my own."

No matter how you stumble and fall, are unable to meditate, turn your attention from your real self for years, hurt and are indifferent to the love of those around you, get back up and expect forgiveness from God, and accept his grace wherever you find it. Whether your friend or your enemy gives you something, it is a gift from your own true self.

Do not waste energy on the impossible. Do not try to convince anyone or change anyone's mind. Do not ask others to make choices for you; do not make choices for others. Both of these are illusions and a denial of the love of God. The best thing you can do for anyone else is to help them make a conscious choice, so that they can learn from it. The best way to teach is by example.

You are wealthy now with an abundance of what you are thinking about. The world is a creative engine, and will create whatever you are really thinking. Every thought in your mind is a prayer about you, no matter who the subject seems to be. The only way to manifest lack is to hold something against someone else. Give up all thoughts of offense, revenge, of being injured, of self-justification, of needing to defend yourself against others' expectations, of the unfairness of life, of others getting some unearned advantage. Joy breeds joy and sorrow breeds sorrow. When you hear of someone's good fortune, think "Good for them! God is blessing and prospering them, and I bless them also!"

Charles Fillmore says, "The inexhaustible resource of Spirit is equal to every demand. There is no reality in lack. Abundance is here and now manifests!"

He is absolutely right!

Trust yourself consciously. You really do anyway! The key to mastery is to acknowledge reality. Reality is a simulation. The future pours into the past through the funnel of your thinking. Change what you are thinking now, and the future will take care of itself.

Your life is in a dynamic balance, based on your present thinking. What happens when you take 2% of the amount in one pan of a balance and put it on the other side? Of course that side goes down and the other goes up, and the change is complete. 2% of your waking life is ten minutes a day. Ten minutes a day of concentrated thought will change your life completely. As a starting point, read these lessons daily for one full month. When things start to change, don't get excited and distracted, but stick with it. Don't talk it away to others. Let the energy concentrate and build.

The only thing God knows how to make is a miracle.

You don't earn it, you learn it. "When you understand karma, it goes away." In any challenging situation, ask yourself, "What am I trying to learn here?" Then begin to act on that principle. Experiment with your life. Invest in your relationships by taking risks in your communication.

When you are stuck, find someone with a similar situation, and teach them what you have learned so far. (Often they will come and find you!) Until you give it away, you don't own it. This goes for wisdom above all things.

Understand that you will never create a situation that you can't learn from. What would be the point? God is with you every moment—it's His job. "I can handle this with God's help" is the beginning and the ending of faith.

The only limitations are self-limitations. Let abundance begin right now. Watch out for the tendency to "Name it and blame it." Responsibility is the opposite of blame. When you blame yourself and others, you temporarily deny your power to change (which is wasting energy on the impossible again). Sooner or later everyone in your life that you think is preventing you from being or having whatever you want, will either die or move away, and you will find out that the condition is made in your own mind. Why not act on this awareness now?

If you are alive, you deserve to be rich. God wants you to be rich. He is more willing to give than we are willing to receive – no matter how willing we are to receive.

We are infinite beings pretending to be finite. We have created forms and conditions to escape the limitations of formlessness. But let's not forget who we really are, and let's not pretend too hard.

The Seven Steps to Abundant Living

Step 1 – Relax, release and let go

Step 2 – Focus attention

Step 3 – Concentrate

Step 4 – Joy

Step 5 – All Manifestation

Step 6 – Give freely

Step 7 – Gratitude to the True Source

Let go of what you aren't using. If you are holding on to something (person, place or thing – or even an idea) because you think you might need it later, you are really telling yourself that you do not own that thing, you do not deserve it, and you do not believe you can recreate it in the future. These are all poverty thoughts. Clean out your closets, have a garage sale or give to Goodwill, but let go of all that spiritual cholesterol that is clogging your arteries of good.

Tithing is regularly giving ten percent of your whole income to those groups or individuals that you see using spiritual principles in a way that you would like to experience in your life. The secret to tithing is just taking control of a process that is already occurring. Regular, conscious tithing builds your conscious power to accept God's abundance in your life.

For most people, a good place to start is tithing to your church, your support group, someone who is teaching you, someone who is a good spiritual example to you. (See Prosperity Made E-Z Lesson Ten.)

Give where you feel good about giving – where you can give in joy and peace without doubt or restriction. Give with no strings attached, and receive the same way.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to express on this subject. I have been enormously blessed as a result. - - Brad Jensen
